Springfield's climate has few extremes and is characteristic of the north central region of the U.S. Rainfall is rather evenly distributed throughout the year. This, with moderate temperatures, helps to make the Mad River Valley a rich agricultural region. The daily maximum temperature varies from 47 degrees in January to a high of 86 degrees in July. Extreme temperatures are usually short in duration.

Each year's frost free period extends about 6 months. The last spring freeze is usually recorded in mid-April. The first fall frost is recorded in late October with some instances of late November recordings.

Precipitation: The average total precipitation is about 40 inches per year.

Snowfall: Cold, polar air, flowing across the Great Lakes, causes much cloudiness during the winter and is accompanied by frequent snow flurries adding little to the total snowfall.

Extremes: Temperatures of zero or below will be experienced in about four years out of five, while 100 degrees or higher will be recorded in about one year out of 20. Extreme temperatures are usually of short duration.

Site Selection magazine has ranked the Springfield Metro Area 2nd in the nation when it comes to new or expanded economic development projects for metros of its size, moving up three spots from last year, when it was 5th in the nation. Springfield and Clark County has a well-diversified economic base with a unique combination of retail, industrial, agricultural, wholesale, service, health care, government, and tourism sector with technology firms increasing. The Clark County civilian labor force is 71,100. In the radius of labor drawing, five-county area, the civilian labor force is 490,000. There are 5,000 businesses in Clark County.

Springfield/Clark County is famous as an antiques mecca. The local estimated annual economic impact is $103 million, with 194,000 combined sq. ft. of space dedicated to collectibles at three antique malls in addition to other antique stores. It is estimated that 200,000 people pass through the Heart of Ohio's doors each year including collectors from Japan and China.

Springfield Regional Medical Center, a new $230 million facility, opened November 2011. The campus, built in Springfield's urban core, goes beyond an acute care hospital to create a healing environment that promotes health and recovery. The new $16 million Ohio Valley Medical Center, also located in downtown Springfield, is a 24-bed, short-stay surgical hospital and opened in 2009.

There are 300 manufacturers in Clark County. Main industrial categories are transportation equipment, machinery, electrical equipment, fabricated metals, printing and publishing, primary metals, instruments, leather, stone-clay-glass and plastics.

As of 2011, there were 1,026 Clark Countians employed at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base. WPAFB's annual economic impact is $5 billion with 27,000 total employees and 30,000 indirect jobs, making it Ohio's largest single-site employer.

The Ohio Air National Guard facility at Springfield Beckley Municipal Airport employs 1,196 people. Under the management of the City of Springfield, the airport's more than 1,300 acres will be transformed within the next five years. The guard base has new facilities including the air traffic control tower, main operations center, fire station and civil engineering offices. Compared to any other base in the United States, they have some of the most high tech facilities in the country. Activity in and around the airport will increase options for industrial and aviation businesses.

Phase II of AirPark Ohio, an industrial park adjacent to the airport on U.S. 68, has begun. A portion of the land will be utilized to facilitate the realignment of Ohio 794 to make way for the new armed forces center. The $25 million facility will be used by the Army National Guard and reserves and the realigned road will go around the facility. New T-hangars are being built at a different location on airport grounds. A water and sewer system that would connect the airport to the city services via the southern interceptor is in the design stages.

Agriculture receipts for 2010 were $137 million. There are 740 farms on 177,000 acres with Clark County ranked 3rd in the state for nursery, greenhouse, floriculture and sod and ranked 4th in cattle/calves. Clark County has two mega-dairy farms and the largest cattle farm east of the Mississippi River. Clark County leads the state in the number of farms preserved through the Ohio Agricultural Easement Purchase Program.

There are 17 food processing and distributing companies in Clark County. Ohio ranks fourth among the 50 states in value-added food processing production. The reason most commonly cited for Ohio's leading position in food processing is the state's strategic location between the grain belt and the populous Eastern markets.

The Springfield area has several active industrial parks, including the PrimeOhio Corporate Park with 400 acres, Commerce Circle with 60 acres, Springfield Industrial Park with 80 acres, KTK Industrial Park with 40 acres and the Champion City Industrial Park. Industrial parks with available land include the 211-acre PrimeOhio II Industrial Park, the 190-acre Airpark Ohio, the 77-acre Wenco Center, the 40-acre Honey Creek Industrial Park, and the 18-acre Tremont City Industrial Park.

Nextedge Technology and Research Park is adjacent to I-70, east of Springfield, and is a $30 million project located on 204 acres zoned for research and development as well as data processing. Mills Morgan, LexisNexis (Reed Elsevier Technology Services), Qbase, AVETeC, and SAIC were the first companies to locate in Nextedge, with more to come.

The East National Road Corridor is under huge growth with a new Wal-Mart Super Center, banks, restaurants, and condos.

Springfield, a medium-size community and governmental seat of Clark County, is located in the southwest corner of Ohio. The surrounding terrain is relatively flat accentuated by rolling hills. Prehistoric mound builders were probably the first residents of Clark County. Traces of their structures can still be found in nearby Enon where the second largest conical mound, the Knob Prairie Mound, can be found.

John Toland, born in 1750, came to America with the British Army during the Revolutionary War, then deserted and joined the American forces. Toland's funeral was the first military funeral held in Clark County and he is buried in the Columbia Street Cemetery.

George Rogers Clark, for whom the county is named, led a band of Kentuckians including Simon Kenton into this territory and defeated the Shawnee Indians at the Battle of Piqua on August 8, 1780. One member of the tribe was a 12-year-old boy named Tecumseh who later became a famous Shawnee leader dedicated to fighting whites. Born in Clark County, he was emissary to all Indians of the Northwestern and Southwestern territories.

A member of the Clark Expedition, John Paul, returned to the area and built his home in 1790. He is believed to be the first white settler to locate in what became Clark County. The first crop harvested in the county was corn, in 1797 by David Lowry, who transported it to New Orleans by flatboat.

The Treaty of Greenville in 1795 between the Indians and General Anthony Wayne, in which the Indians agreed to stop hostile acts toward settlers, generally opened this area for settlement. Indian hostility in Ohio ended with General William Henry Harrison's victory at Tippecanoe in 1811. It began the opening of the Northwest Territory.

One of the county's early settlers was James Demint, who erected a cabin at the confluence of Mad River and Lagonda (Buck) Creek in 1799. It was on his land that a plat of the city was made in 1801 by surveyor, James Dougherty. The same year, Griffith Foos built the first tavern, which became a famous stagecoach stop. In 1804, the first post office was recorded for Springfield. Simon Kenton built a gristmill and distillery where later the old International Harvester (Navistar) plant was built. This plant has now been demolished and the International Truck & Engine Corporation is located on Rt. 72 north (Urbana Road).

The 412 square miles that became Clark County were mapped out of parts of Champaign, Greene and Madison counties in 1817. The first meeting of the Clark County Commission was held on April 25, 1818. The 1820 census showed a total population of 9,535. By 1827, the tiny frontier hamlet was granted a city charter by the State of Ohio in 1850. "Springfield" was named by Simon Kenton's wife for its many springs and abundant waters. The Old National Road was completed through Springfield in 1839 and the railroads of the 1840s provided profitable business to the area. At the turn of the century, 54 passenger trains arrived daily in Springfield. Agriculture and then industry flourished. By the beginning of the Civil War, the two had joined forces to help Springfield become one of the world's leading manufacturers of agricultural equipment.

Navistar (International Truck and Engine Corporation) previously International Harvester Company, is noteworthy in this regard. The manufacturer of farm machinery became the leading local industry and, the second largest in the world, after a native, William Whitely, invented the combined self-raking reaper and mower in 1856. This machine was an improvement over any known farm machinery and was in great demand after the Civil War.

Another native, James Leffel, invented the first practical water turbine in 1862 and began manufacturing it in his Springfield foundry. In the 1880s, P. P. Mast began publishing "Farm and Fireside." Although used initially to advertise his farm machinery, it soon became a leading periodical and was the basis for the Crowell-Collier Publishing Company.

In the 1890s, school teacher and superintendent, A. B. Graham, began supervising agricultural extension clubs for boys and girls. In 1902, he organized the clubs on a national basis, the beginning of the 4-H Club movement.

In 1845, Wittenberg University was established by the English Lutheran Synod of Ohio and has grown to be a leading educational, cultural and intellectual force in Springfield and the Midwest.

Other notable historical facts: Clark County manufactured ten different automobiles during the 1900s; two beers, Red Head and Blue Head; two Ohio governors were Clark County natives, Asa Bushnell and James Rhodes; famous entertainers call Clark County home, Lillian Gish, Jonathan Winters and John Legend. In 1983, Newsweek magazine chose Springfield for its 50th Anniversary issue that dealt with the "Most Typical City in the U.S. - Springfield, Ohio."

The Clark County of today is very different from the one created in 1817. The population has grown from 9,533 to 138,333 in the 194 years since the county was established.

Community Hospital and Mercy Medical Center merged in 2008 to become SPRINGFIELD REGIONAL MEDICAL CENTER (Community Mercy Health Partners). Soon after their merger, they announced plans to build a new 475,000 square-foot hospital with 254 private rooms in downtown Springfield. The medical center is scheduled to open November 2011. As the largest employer in Clark County, CMHP employs nearly 3,000 health care professionals and works with more than 300 local physicians to serve its patients. Currently, CMHP operates Springfield Regional Medical Center at 2615 E. High Street. This full-service hospital offers 24/7 emergency care, maternity services, critical and intensive care, and surgical services, all provided by skilled doctors and highly trained health professionals. Among other services offered are cardiac care, radiography, mammography, outpatient cancer care at the Cancer Center, rehabilitation and sports medicine therapies, wound care, sleep disorder programs, occupational health services, corporate wellness services and chemical dependency treatment. www.community-mercy.org

The SPRINGFIELD REGIONAL SCHOOL OF NURSING will be moved to Clark State Community College in 2012, in conjunction with Urbana University. The school offers RN, LPN and paramedic courses of study. Currently at 330 S. Burnett Road. (937) 328-8900. www.community-mercy.org

REAL ESTATE - The base tax in Ohio is the Real Estate tax, levied and collected locally from property owners. Rates vary within the county from taxing district to district and are subject to a reduction factor to offset the impact of inflation and reappraisals. The levies include county, city and school obligations. The first 10% of residential and agricultural real property and an additional 2.5% on owner occupied home-stead property are paid by the state. A further reduction is available to senior citizens 65 and over or permanently and totally disabled on the first $25,000 of appraised value effective July 1, 2007. Assessments are made by the County Auditor.

In Springfield and Clark County, the real estate taxable value is 35% of the market value except for certain agricultural land.

Assessments are placed upon the tax duplicate by the County Auditor.

PERSONAL PROPERTY - Tangible personal property used in business is subject to a tax at the full unreduced rates voted for real property but on a varied assessment schedule. Tangible personal property taxation has been phased out as of December 31, 2008. Ohio reimburses all political subdivisions for revenues from tax levies lost due to the phase out of tangible personal property through 2010.

All classes of tangible personal property are assessed at 25% of value. Machinery, equipment, furniture and fixtures are valued at their depreciated book value as of December 31 of the prior year. Inventory is taxed according to the average monthly values. The first $10,000 of taxable value is exempt for each taxpayer with all political subdivisions reimbursed for their revenue loss from this exemption.

STATE INCOME - The State of Ohio imposes a graduated personal income tax with rates of .743% to 7.5% on the Federal adjusted gross income after allowing an exemption of $1,150 per dependent plus or minus Ohio adjustments from Schedule A of Ohio returns and a $20 tax credit per dependent.

There is a provision for the Tax Commissioner to enter into reciprocity agreements with other states in regard to taxes on the income of nonresidents. No credits provided for Ohio Municipal income tax.

CITY INCOME - The City of Springfield has a flat rate 2% income tax on net profits of businesses and on compensation of individuals who work, or live, in the city. There are no deductions or exemptions. Residents working outside of Springfield still pay 2% City of Springfield tax, but receive credit for 50% of the taxes paid to the other district. (City in which he/she works).

For business with a branch or part of its operations in the city, the taxable profit is determined from the firm's records or from the City's allocation formula.

The City personal income tax is withheld by employers. Income from interest, dividends and capital gains is not taxed.

Residents of Springfield working outside of Springfield, residents' businesses, and nonresidents' businesses doing business in Springfield must file an estimate of income and pay quarterly.

STATE SALES - Beginning July 1, 2005 the Ohio Sales Tax is 5.50% on the sale price of tangible personal property sold at retail, including rentals, some services and lodging. Major exemptions: food purchased for human consumption off the premises where sold; newspapers and magazine subscriptions sent by second class mail; motor fuel; sales of artificial and natural gas, electricity and water delivered through pipes, wires and conduits; prescription drugs; property used directly in manufacturing, mining or agriculture; value of trade-ins on new motor vehicles; sales where the purpose of the consumer is to use or consume the things transferred in making retail sales and consisting of newspaper inserts, coupons, flyers, gift certificates or other advertising material which prices and describes tangible personal property offered for retail sale; sales to direct marketing vendors of preliminary materials such as photographs, artwork, typesetting that will be used in printing advertising material, and of equipment such as telephones, computers, etc., and similar tangible personal property primarily used to accept orders for direct marketing retail sales.

COUNTY SALES - Clark County has a 1.5% sales tax.
